제기차기

Jegichagi is a Korean traditional outdoor game. It requires the use of people's foot and Jegi, an object used to play jegichagi. Jegi looks like a badminton shuttlecock, which is made of a small coin (quarter size), paper, or cloth. In Korea, children usually play alone or with friends in winter seasons, especially on Lunar New Year.

How to play

1. Players Kick the jegi into the air using instep of the foot. The winner of the game is the player who kicks jegi the most times without letting it fall.
2. The game can be played individually or in teams by adding up the scores.

How to make Jegi

Things to prepare: plastic bags or wrapping tissue paper, 2~3 coins, string, scissors, and scotch tape.

1. Pile the coins and tape them together.
2. Prepare the plastic bag by cutting into a square about ~25 cm wide.
3. Place the coin at the middle of the plastic bag.
4. Hold the coin inside the plastic bag and tie it using a string.
5. Cut the untied part of the plastic bag into thinner strands (~1.5 cm) using scissors.
